

Ripples are evidence that strong winds hit the snow surface and loaded slopes. This picture was in McAtee Basin in the N Madison at the end of Buck Ridge. Strong northwest winds ahead of the cold front created these waves of soft wind slabs. Photo: GNFAC

Advisory Region
Northern Madison
Longitude
-111.45W

Latitude
45.18N

Forecast link: GNFAC Avalanche Advisory for Mon Dec 25, 2017
Northern Madison, 2017-12-24