Snow was dry on North aspects when we got there around 10, and we started seeing a couple of wet loose on solar aspects where the terrain was steeper and rocky at 1130.

Snowpack started getting damp on the surface where we were skiing in the love chutes above Ainger Lake around 1300, on the descent back to the shaft house trailhead we were getting small roller balls and the snowpack was saturated below 6600 by 1430.
